Bridgman Fire Department

Dave White was a man that supported emergency services for decades and loved the fire service. Most of the time he was quietly in the background taking pictures. When he saw something that needed to be addressed he would speak up and then slip back into the background to take more pictures. He carried a pager and a helmet like the rest of us and responded to the station when he could. He was usually behind the camera lens and there's a lot of film out there to prove it. He didn't just take pictures, he documented everything so we could learn and grow. He's part of the Brotherhood...

Rest in Peace Dave.
